Why Leland Seminary?

Michael Youngblood—

Do you wonder if there is a school that is kingdom focused and Christ centered? Do you yearn to immerse yourself in the Bible and the study of what the church has said and is saying about God? Do you hope to continue ministering in your community while learning in a place that is both local and global?

Whether you are called to be a local church leader, pastor, missionary, an artist, or advocate Leland Seminary will help prepare you for the work God has called you to participate in with him.

Leland is a Baptist seminary accredited by the Association of Theological Schools that operates in partnership with many Baptist conventions, local associations, and churches. As a Baptist school in the free-church tradition, Leland is uniquely positioned to receive people from all walks of the Christian life, whether they are pursuing a Masters degree or a ministry diploma.

At Leland you will balance your rigorous academic courses with spiritual formation by learning from a faculty that also serve in Christian ministry and were trained at institutions around the world. Leland's ethnically and internationally diverse faculty, teach classes ranging in size from 5 to 20. It is in this intimate context that you will engage your learning community and be challenged by a student body that echoes the diversity of its professors.

You, more than anything, want to study in a community of faith and learning where God is calling you. For the student that desires to experience a theological learning community made up of a diverse group of people, Leland is for you. For the student that desires to delve deeply into the Scripture and kingdom of God, Leland is for you.
